

Captains Report – June 2019

Even with winter well and truly upon us, there is plenty of golf being played. Our pennant teams are nearing the end of the season with our Men's A Grade side pushing for a finals berth, having won two of their four matches. We have had some new players in both the A and B grade sides this year for which we hope they will continue with the club and our Pennant teams.

Our new Par Series is underway thanks to John McInnes and Leigh Hiscock for their sponsorship. We had over 50 players enter in the first round which we are quite pleased with. Hopefully the solid numbers will continue through winter!

The scoring has been down noticeably as the course becomes more difficult through the colder months. I'm sure this is reflecting in people's handicaps going out as a group. Course work continues as we try to finish off the new green and tees, please keep your ears open for a working bee in the near future.

Good Golfing,

Ben Birtles
